Town of Carolina Beach Update of Snow's Cut Bridge

The Town of Carolina Beach, in consultation with Kure Beach and the New Hanover County Emergency Operations Center, may consider closing the Snow's Cut Bridge when sustained winds are in excess of 45 miles per hour. Snow's Cut Bridge is a high rise bridge and traveling across the bridge in windy conditions could be hazardous.

Based on the current tract and storm intensity, it would appear that sustained winds will not affect our area until late evening or in the early morning hours. The bridge will be reopened when sustained winds dip below 45 miles per hour and following an assessment by Town Staff that it is safe to return. As with any severe storm, please use extreme caution when traveling in Town due to the possibility of downed power lines, flooding or other potential hazards.
